“THEY ARE COMMITTED TO THE CAUSE OF NEW MUSIC, AND THEY KNOW HOW TO CONVEY THAT COMMITMENT THROUGH THEIR PLAYING.” - CLEVELAND CLASSICAL

Chartreuse

A string trio devoted to the music of living composers, based in Chicago and New York City.

MISSION

Chartreuse is driven to expand the string trio repertoire through close collaboration with emerging and established composers.

BIOGRAPHY

Chartreuse string trio is violinist Myra Hinrichs (Chicago), violist Carrie Frey (New York City), and cellist Helen Newby (San Francisco). The tricoastal trio pools the strengths of their cities of residence, commissioning new works from composers across the globe and collaborating with fellow performers on "Chartreuse +/-" projects. The trio has toured extensively in the U.S. Northeast, the Midwest, and California, as well as in Norway.

Uniquely committed to repeat performances and developing the string trio repertoire through adventurous commissions, Chartreuse has premiered works by Kurt Isaacson, Peter Swendsen, Katherine Young, Marek Poliks, Bethany Younge, Leah Asher, David Bird, Tyler Futrell, Daniel Tacke, Kristina Warren, and Aaron Holloway-Nahum, among others. Cleveland Classical described the trio in concert as “a maelstrom almost tactile in its grittiness.” This season’s premieres include works by Peter Kramer, Amber Vistein, and Amy Brandon.

Equally devoted to education, the trio has given performances and workshops for students of all ages at institutions including SUNY Fredonia, Oberlin College's Winter Term Chamber Music Intensive, the Norges Musikkhøgskole in Oslo, Toneheim Folkehøgskole, Tromsø University, middle schools in Philadelphia and Cleveland, and Kendal at Oberlin.

Upcoming season highlights include performances at Brown University, the Twin Cities New Music Festival, Future Space and Greenwich House Music School in New York City, and Boundarymind at 6018North in Chicago.

Chartreuse is part of the inaugural cohort of the Chamber Music America Ensemble Forward Grant, made possible with generous support from the New York Community Trust.

PRESS

“The trio...pushed the conventional limits of each instrument’s sound.”

– The Brown Daily Herald, February 7, 2019 by Jango McCormick

“Most striking were the first [movement of Kurt Isaacson’s trio], with the friction between Hinrichs’s and Frey’s ethereal vocalizations and Newby’s coarse bowing, and the last [movement], a maelstrom almost tactile in its grittiness.”

“The trio allowed silences to stretch and breathe, both drawing out tension and heightening the contrast between their playing and the ambient noise in the hall. Amidst the strange clamor of these pieces, silence became unusually charged.”

“...mercurial, alien, volatile music...”

– Cleveland Classical, January 8, 2015 by Mike Telin

“Violist Carrie Frey and cellist Helen Newby passed musical lines back and forth as though they were in the middle of an animated conversation over a drink – it was as much fun to watch as it was to listen to.”

– Cleveland Classical, January 10, 2015, by Mike Telin

“Students past and present, faculty, and others packed Clonick Hall to hear [Chartreuse’s] aural topographies heave and flex under shattering collisions between tectonic plates of sound – a sonic maelstrom of craggy strings, animalistic bass clarinet, flute squalls, snarling bassoon, and ethereal singing.”

– Oberlin Conservatory Magazine, Spring 2015, by Daniel Hautzinger
